We, the People! is a phrase declared In laws and by-laws that govern The million. Who are the people? Is Heaven kind to man alone, that He should represent the People? Force first made conquest;

Zeal, then, not charity, Has been our guide. Are we not of the people one Or is it the Divine decree That man alone should be made free? Where, alas Lis charity 2 Woman's sphere I cannot find-Tis in the regimen of mind-In joy and gladness, noise and strife-

In all that appertains to life-Is woman's sphere. She ne'er has falled to take her part, In all life's avenues 'tis not incom-To find the kindly care of woman. In exalted stations, All bright with gems of light; In the humble cottage
With scarce the widow's mite;

In dungeons dark and dreaves Where ignorance both cost her-All this we know full well. "We, the People" should not be said Till men by truth alone are led, Half the people, this I cinim.

Have now no power, voice or aim With attributes that God designed To soothe and cheer and bless our kind-Half of all that's good and great Have yet no voice in Church or State.
